

GREENPEACE EDINBURGH NEWSLETTER

We now have a newsletter!

A few things discussed on October 3rd 2018:

SCOTTISH SKILLSHARE

Greenpeace Scotland Supergroup in Inverness

On 29th September 27 local group volunteers (plus two beautiful and crazy pups) gathered in Inverness to get a more in-depth understanding of how Greenpeace works, get some theoretical and practical training on street campaigning and make plans for the future. We also had great discussions about recruiting and retaining new volunteers, which are crucial for Greenpeace (yes, we are!). We also decided that we need more social events, so any ideas are welcome.

NEW ROLES

Chris is now a Greenpeace Speaker and his first presentation is going to be at an Edinburgh primary school next week.

Mariana is doing an online training to be Edinburgh's local media coordinator, responsible to get local media coverage for our GP activities.

Film night: 17th October 8 pm @ Beehive Inn
We'll have a short meeting at 7 pm

Keep an eye on Greenwire and Facebook for the next actions and events

SHOPPERS REVOLT

On 15th September we invited shoppers to leave unnecessary plastic packaging at the tills at Sainsburys Gorgie and the response was incredible! A campaign letter was handed to the assistant store manager at the end, pointing out that consumers don't want to take home pointless plastic.

Greenpeace local groups organised actions in 67 stores across the UK as part of our End Ocean Plastic campaign. #ShoppersRevolt

#WingsOfParadise

Street artists from all over the world created murals in cities like London, Melbourne, Taipei, and more, to create awareness about Birds of Paradise, one of the species facing the risk of extinction in Papua due to destructive palm oil industry. Click here to read more.
